

COUNCIL PAYS OFF FIRST BOND ISSUE

1897 Sewer Construction
Issue to Be Cleared
December 1.

LOWER FLOATING DEBT

An experience unique in the history of Borough Council occurred Monday night, when the last payment was made on a set of bonds. This closes from the books the first bond issue ever put out by the borough.

The issue was in the amount of $3000, and was put out in 1897—less than two years after the borough was established. The loan was for the construction of sewers.

By means of sinking funds these 30-year bonds have been paid off at the rate of $500 over five years. The payment due December 1 is the last. Many subsequent issues—all in larger amounts, are still running.

Another pleasing indication of improvement in the financial condition of the borough was seen when it was announced that the floating debt on current finances had dropped to $9000. It was $36,500 after the last meeting, but heavy collections of taxes were turned in by Tax Collector E. P. Dold.

As a result of the reduction of the current loans, Narberth will enter the new year with her slate nearly clean, if not entirely so. It has been many years since the books have balanced, for despite increased taxes, income never quite caught up with outgo, the difference being nearly $50,000 at times.

"It has been a long way through the wilderness," one of the Councilmen remarked at the meeting and regret was expressed that the late A. Perry Redifer, faithful watch dog of the treasury, was alive not to see the winning out of the policy he fostered in borough financing.

It is not known at the present time whether or not the condition of the current debt will indicate a lower tax rate next year. The budget will be drafted at next month's meeting and presented for final approval in January, and all committee chairmen have announced their intention of cutting expenses to the minimum next year.

Another factor which will influence the tax rate will be the assessments recorded in the triennial canvass by retiring assessor Frank A. O'Brien. The figures will be available next month. If Mr. O'Brien heeds the agitation for re-assessment of the business district, it is possible that the tax rate can go down, Councilmen state.

Committee reports showed that J. Baird Caldwell had been refused a permit to put up a six-car garage in connection with an apartment under construction on Essex avenue in a residence district. Permits to the number of 10, totaling $15,000, were issued last month by George B. Suplee.

The liens committee announced that foreclosure proceedings were under way against a number of property owners to collect over

Executive Board Holds First Meeting of New Year.

The executive board of the sub-junior section of the Women's Community Club held its first meeting at the home of Mrs. L. Parker Miller, 514 Dudley avenue, Monday evening, November 7, 1927. Mrs. Miller was recently chosen the adviser, succeeding Mrs. H. I. McConnell.

Many interesting plans for the programs during the coming winter were discussed at this meeting.

The first meeting of the club will be held at the home of the Misses Virginia and Carrie Louise Douglas, Monday, November 21, at 7.30. Persons interested in becoming members may send their applications to Betty Otto, membership chairman, 316 Grayline avenue. It is hoped this meeting will result in many new members.

LOWER MERION AND RADNOR MEET IN MAIN LINE CLASSIC THIS AFTERNOON

Ardmore Field Will Be Scene of Annual Struggle—Record of 10,000 Expected to See Evenly Matched Rivals Play.
Seek Revenge for Last Year.

Lower Merion High School will be host this afternoon, at its field in Ardmore, for the annual Radnor High-Lower Merion football game, the most brilliant spectacle of the Main Line gridiron season. Previous attendance records for this classic are expected to be broken as fully 10,000 rabid, royal rooters are anticipated to watch the twenty-eighth annual clash between the Main Line's most historic rivals.

The student bodies of the two rival institutions will turn out en masse; alumni will return in hordes. And hundreds of just plain citizens with no particular affiliations but with a keen desire to witness this, the biggest of the suburban scholastic football games, will augment the crowd.

The game will have all the color of a big contest between two ancient college rivals. There will be the bands, Lower Merion's composed of students, and also a band which Radnor always brings with it on its biennial invasions of Lower Merion. There will be the pennants, the banners, the cheering sections, the rabid partisan rivalry, the pent-up enthusiasm, the shouting, applause and everything that goes with the big game of the year. Impossible it is to be there and not catch the contagion of the thing.

Lower Merion athletic authorities have made seating arrangements for 8000. The regular bleachers have been augmented and stands have been placed even behind the goal posts in an effort to provide accommodations for the

Oysters the Victor at Banquet of Lower Merion Horse Society

The L. M. S. R. S. H. and D. H. T. held its seventy-fifth annual meeting in the Masonic Hall, Ardmore, on Saturday, and declared a dividend. This action caused no flurry on the stock market, for the organization was neither a railroad nor an insurance company as the imposing list of initials might indicate.

It was the Lower Merion Society for the Recovery of Stolen Horses and for the Detection of Horse Thieves. The dividend was a dinner, which was given to each one of some 210 members who were in good standing with the treasurer as of the close of business, that is, reservations early Saturday. The affair began in the afternoon and lasted through the evening.

Once upon a time, when there were no tabloid head line writers to view with alarm the lengthy title of the association, the society had a vital purpose for existence. It still has a purpose, but it is a changed one.

When horses provided the chief mode of transportation, annoying gentry stole these, thus causing grandfather to walk back from many a buggy ride. Instead of singing a song about their misfortunes, however, the old-timers got together and formed the Lower Merion Society for the Recovery of Stolen Horses and for the Detection of Horse Thieves. So efficiently did they function, all this is from an explanation by one of the society's members, that the automobile, which it was much less dangerous to steal, was invented.

With the passing of time, and the growth of the automobile, the need for the society's horse thief catching activities decreased, but rather than disband the organization decided to get itself another reason for existence. This it did and since that time its chief purpose has been gastronomic.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS TOMORROW

The Main Line Orchestra, Adolph Vogel, conductor, will give its first concert for this season on Sunday afternoon, November 20, at 3.30 at the Ardmore Theater.

Ann Prichard, a talented young pianist, will be the soloist, playing the Rhapsodie Espaynole by Liszt with orchestral accompaniment and a group of Chopin numbers in the second half of the program. The rest of the program is as follows: Rosamunde Overture, by Schubert; first movement of Mozart's C major symphony, Dreams, by Wagner, in memory of Rev. Andrew H. Haughey, and the Carmen Suite by Bizet.

The orchestra which now numbers 54 is doing very good work and Mr. Vogel has planned a very interesting series of concerts for this season. Rehearsals take place every Tuesday evening at the parish house of St. Mary's Church, Ardmore.

BOOK REVIEWS AT COMMUNITY CLUB

New Volume of Poems Written by Husband of Local Member.

REPORT ON CLUB WORK

A group of interesting book reviews by Reba S. Kelly, of Cynwyd, featured the meeting of the Women's Community Club Tuesday. The talk followed a number of committee reports.

Mrs. Kelly's reviews covered works for all ages from six years up. Among the children's books to receive special mention was that recently written by a "club husband." The work consists of a group of poems under the title of "Rag House Tales."

The author is Abram Bunn Ross, of Cynwyd, formerly a resident of Narberth, and husband of the Montgomery county president, formerly head of the local club. Mr. Ross is also author of a number of books and articles on scientific agriculture and home gardening.

Under travel works Mrs. Kelly mentioned "A Vagabond in Fiji," a tale by a travel tramp who started out with the telegraphed instructions: "Expect you to dine with cannibals, investigate wild vamps; if necessary jump overboard with knife between teeth and fight man-eating sharks and tell the truth about it." It seems he did.

The speaker told also of the rivalry between a Princeton and a Harvard student, each of whom left the day after graduation on a race around the world. Their amusing adventures are told in "After You, Magellan." Other stories of adventure were "Trader

EDUCATION WEEK FITLY OBSERVED

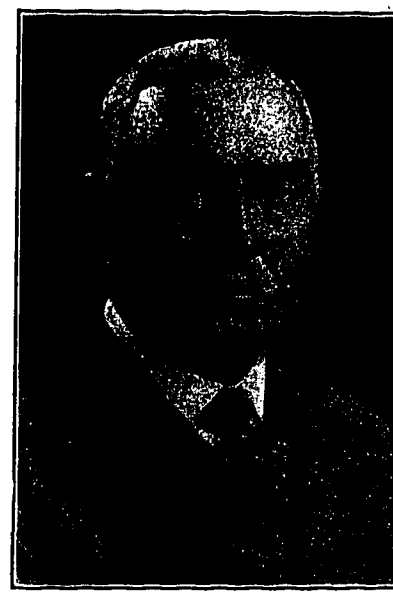

Narberth Speakers Interest
Large Group on Monday.

Education for life, rather than accumulation of knowledge, was stressed at the opening meeting of Education Week in Narberth, on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Mothers' Council. An audience which taxed the capacity of the school library demonstrated the community's interest in this subject. Mrs. R. G. Aungst, president of the Mothers' Council, presided.

Reverend Robert E. Keighton, of the Baptist church, speaking on "Spiritual Education," pointed out that the object of education is not to produce a walking encyclopedia of facts, nor is its main purpose to teach a child how to do a particular thing. Its real object is to give him such an understanding of himself and the world around him that he will have a scale of values by which to measure and guide himself. The object of religious education is the same. Religion does not consist in study of the Bible, nor in attending church or Sunday school. Its purpose is also to interpret life in terms of ideals so that we can get the most and the best out of life here and now. "Some people are so heavenly they are no earthly good," said Mr. Keighton. "Since general education and religious education are the same in purpose, there can be no non-religious education, and no non-educational religion." Therefore,

LIBRARY DELEGATES MEET AT NARBERTH

65 Representatives at Fall
Session of Philadelphia
District.

FIRST TIME BORO HOST

Delegates from practically all the libraries of the Main Line attended the regular fall meeting of the libraries of the Philadelphia district held Wednesday at Narberth. About 65 representatives of the smaller libraries were present.

It was the first time in its history that the Narberth Library entertained the session. The meeting was one of the regular winter series held under the auspices of the extension division of the State Library which was represented by Miss Matthews, a member of the staff at Harrisburg.

There was an all-day session, beginning at 10.45 A. M. with Mrs. E. C. Drew, of the Narberth staff, presiding. The morning program included a paper on "Convincing a Community of Its Need for a Library" by Mrs. Robert F. Wood, the Narberth librarian, and a round-table discussion of library methods, led by Mrs. Drew.

The session adjourned at 12.30 P. M. for lunch which was served in the the adjoining Girl Scouts' room by the Girl Scout Mothers. The program was resumed at 1.30 with a talk on "Book Selection for Small Libraries" by Miss Bessie Graham, instructor of library science at Temple University and author of "The Bookman's Manual." Visitors were present from libraries in Ardmore, Bryn Mawr, Bala, Cynwyd, West Chester and many more distant points

The luncheon and supper will be served by Mrs. Charles Reger and her able assistants. You are needed to help make this seventh bazaar the best that the church has ever held.

In their last game before their all-important battle with Radnor tomorrow, Lower Merion won from the fighting Upper Darby team by the score of 20-6. The contest was staged Saturday at Ardmore.

Featuring the game was the brilliant open-field running of Parker Lloyd, Coach Adam's flashy backfield ace. This was Lloyd's first appearance on the team for several weeks due to scholastic difficulties, but he proved that his enforced layoff had not cost him any of the cleverness that marks him as a good player.

Coach Adam did a Knute Rockne when he used his reserve team to start the game. These boys played their heads off and at the end of the first quarter had succeeded in tallying a touchdown while holding Upper Darby scoreless.

Lots of men secretly envy the tramp's don't care disposition.

Among the Business Men

The ad man was so busy putting out the special Narberth Theater edition two weeks ago that he didn't have time to toot his own horn. He would like to state, however, that it was the largest edition of "Our Town" ever published. The postal carriers cursed under their breaths when the papers were dumped at the post office and Davis sold 260 copies, in addition to the mail circulation. Yes, Genevieve, we would like to run an issue like that every week. We know a nice young Rolls-Royce salesman.

The broad-leafed palm fan this week is gently waved over the head of Walter Case for furnishing the most important bit of business news. The Narberth Electric Shop is now located in its newer, larger, lighter and brighter store across the street from the old home. We think he told us the number is 241 Haverford avenue. If we pass that display of his many more times we will break a life-long resolution and buy a radio.

Someone told us this week that Marios Chios was in Turkey. We saw him as usual yesterday, though, in charge of the Arcadia Restaurant, so venture the guess that the rumor simply meant he was cornering the turkey market for Thanksgiving. The advertising columns tell us that he is preparing to entertain many families next Thursday with a sumptuous repast for the small price of a subscription to Our Town.

We patted the Narberth Coal Company on the back in the last column, but we cannot refrain from repeating in this case. Will Ralph Dunne please tell us how he gets all these nice communications from Girard? We have looked in vain for a free ton of coal for our words of praise in these columns, but we don't stand a chance if The Inquirer is going to sing his story to all of Pennsylvania.

We received a shock last week when we were taken on a tour of inspection through the Narberth Flower Shop by Manager Killian. Mrs. Jefferies has expanded her attractive little room into a three-story treasure house of flowers, plants and pottery. In the cellar is a large workroom for making up special baskets and wreaths. On the second floor is a beautifully decorated department for the display of unusual floral accessories. All-in-all, it is an enterprise in which Narberth may take some justifiable pride, for it is a sermon in good taste. Another shop was opened by Mrs. Jefferies this week in Cynwyd.

Most lumber yards are so big and formal that the handy man is terrified to apply for wood in small quantities for use about the house. No child glances greeted the ad man last week, however, when he got a few feet of nice-smelling lumber for book shelves from the Shull Lumber Company. Their ad this week is one of those pieces of literature which warms the heart. In these days of giant toy departments we get into the bad habit of buying everything ready-made. But nothing is so satisfactory for the Christmas tree as home-made platforms for electric trains, tree tables, etc. Spend a delightful hour some day soon at Cynwyd and talk over Christmas lumber with Mr. Shull or Miss Clayden at the office. We venture that 98 per cent. of Narberth fathers are still pretty handy with the saw and hammer.

If the ad man had not been so long-winded this week he would have room to talk about two or three of his pet stores in Narberth. If too many people don't cancel their subscriptions, though, we will ramble on again in a week or so.

The Ad Man.

At the Theater

Every soldier will tell you that he had a lot of fun out of a war. Ask any reminiscence veteran of the A. E. F. or some erstwhile goliath of the U. S. N. and they will smile and say "betcha." But ask a leatherneck, a soldier of the seven seas, what he thinks about it, and your answer will be "hot dog." That's why the Captain Flagg in the picture-ization of "What Price Glory" remarks after a leave of absence and a hilarious visit to Bar-le-Duc—"This is the best war I ever attended."

Victor McLaglen, soldier of fortune, captain in the world war and a capital actor, is the Captain Flagg of the story; Edmund Lowe is Sergeant Quirt, and lovely Dolores Del Rio will be seen as Charmaine. These head a great cast and a host of auxiliaries in the big scenes. The Narberth Theater will have this feature film next week.

"Don Juan!" What adventurous and romantic fancies that name conjures up in the minds of the literature lovers of all nations!

John Barrymore! What a very incarnation of the spirit of romance and adventure that name represents to all lovers of the stage and screen the world over.

Therefore, it is with pardonable pride that Warner Brothers present their super-production of "Don Juan," starring John Barrymore, which comes to the local playhouse next week.

Betty Compson, as a gay, pleasure-loving, spoiled child of society; Betty, as the sensational Creole dancer of the New Orleans Mardi Gras, and Betty, also, as the daring leader of an underworld gang! It sounds like a big order, doesn't it? Yet Chadwick Pictures Corporation promises that Betty assumes these three widely different roles in "The Ladybird," which will be seen locally at the Narberth Theater next week.

In this film she has the unique opportunity of playing two distinctly different parts. No, this is not another of those dual role productions, but Betty, the spoiled product of a legacy, finds it a gay lark to pose as "The Ladybird," the sensational leader of a band of thieves, who have congregated at New Orleans for the world famous Mardi Gras.

The wages of sin is death, but there is always a man for the job.

$5000, due the borough for street, curb, sidewalk and sewer work. Sheriff sales will be resorted to to clear up the accounts.

The borough, through the Recreation Board and the property committee of Council, are negotiating with the trustees of the Y. M. C. A. for a modification of the agreement whereby the community building was given the borough.

It is their intention to try to work out a plan whereby greater use may be obtained from the entire building. The expansion in the use of the Girl Scout room is particularly sought. The surviving trustees who will meet with the officials are A. C. Shand, W. D. Smedley, Fletcher W. Stites and T. Noel Butler.

ANNOUNC OFFICERS

The new officers elected at the recent annual meeting have been announced by the Narberth Tennis Association.

John B. Wine was chosen president, to succeed W. D. R. Evans, who retired due to the pressure of other activities. H. Ronald Paige was elected vice-president; W. J. Sommer, secretary and A. C. Staples, treasurer.

The Board of Governors includes the officers and J. G. Allen, F. X. Connolly and William J. Kirkpatrick. The board of trustees is made up of chairman Walter Cowin, Edwin P. Dold, W. D. R. Evans, Carl B. Metzger and F. G. Warner.

BOY SCOUTS OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY HERE

Fathers' Association to Hold Election Next Month.

Armistice Day was appropriately celebrated by the Boy Scouts at their meeting that day, following which "Dick" Sigel sounded "taps" on his bugle while the 43 boys stood at "attention."

An interesting evening was spent in the cabin studying the art of inducing artificial respiration in the life saving demonstration which was given by Inspector J. C. Barton of Scout Headquarters.

The nominating committee of the Fathers' Association is actively engaged in interviewing some of the fathers of the boys with a view to filling the various executive positions at the annual meeting of the association on December 1.

At that time a president, vice-president and a secretary-treasurer will be chosen for the coming year. E. P. Dold at the present time is the president. In addition, nine directors will be elected to office for one year, following which the troop committee, consisting of seven men, will be appointed.

F. A. Lanahan is chairman of the nominating committee. Suggestions from any resident of Narberth will be welcomed by him.

The boys have re-organized for the winter, and are carrying on an active campaign in the interest of the scout movement, under the leadership of their newly-elected scoutmaster, John Wilson. Knot tying, and wig-wag signaling have thus far occupied the principal portion of their programs.

The troop now has eight "first-class" scouts, and a total enrollment of 52. Consideration is being given to the creation of two troops in order to afford better supervision and more individual instruction.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER

Girard's Talk of the Day

WHAT a shock! Opening a mailed package which looked like a box of cigars I found two pounds of perfectly nice anthracite.

I do not dwell at Narberth. I do not buy coal there, nor do I buy, thank heaven, coal from any other source.

But Narberth has a coal dispenser who believes in publicity and tons of it. One form of publicity—he calls it coal education—is to send two pounds of his coal to friends or prospective customers to show them how pretty is his anthracite.

And Walton M. Wentz, a thoroughbred publicity expert himself, assures me that this Narberth coal man is really a fuel educator. "Put two bins in your cellar," he told one customer, "and you will save money."

By using two kinds of coal the customer did save money. "Only by chemical analysis can you determine," says the coal man, "which coal contains most carbon."

And he analyzes coal so that his customers can see and know what they buy. He sent out 1000 packages of coal in two-pound lots.

I DO NOT personally know this Narberth coal dealer, but if the anthracite industry, as a unit, were half as smart as that little Main Line retailer there would be no necessity for holding a wake—they call it a conference—for an anthracite corpse.

For forty years anthracite has been cutting its own throat through internal fights. It has angered consumers by shut downs and exorbitant prices. Especially shut down of mines and fuel famines.

Pennsylvania anthracite is by far the best coal ever known. It has of late years been sandbagged by those who own and mine it.

You don't see oil producers, gas manufacturers or big electrical companies cutting off fuel or power supplies for months at a time.

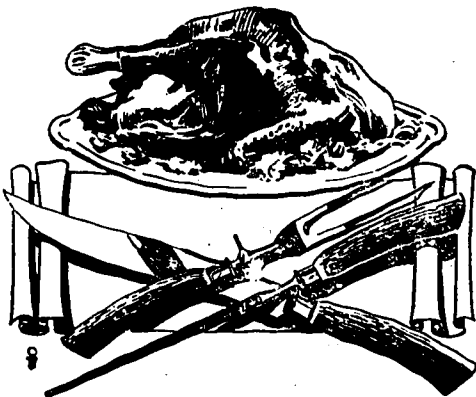

Anthracite operators took the silly attitude that anthracite is a necessity. It is only a coal luxury, finest and cleanest there is, but still not necessary.

At last the wearied consumer has demonstrated that fact. In the meantime, anthracite has nearly succeeded in committing suicide.

TELEPHONE CO. OPENS NEW OFFICES

First "Counterless" Business Office in This State.

HAS MANY FEATURES

The first "counterless" telephone business office in this section of the country and, in fact, one of the first offices of this type in the United States, was opened by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania on the corner of Anderson avenue opposite the railroad station in Ardmore last Monday.

Not only is the office layout across from the Ardmore Station the most modern that is known today, but the finishing of the interior and the exterior of the building and the details of the furnishings are in keeping with the many improvements and fine residences that characterize this prosperous and influential suburban section.

The new telephone building is the headquarters of the Main Line District, which includes Ardmore, Berwyn, Bryn Mawr, Cynwyd, Narberth, Malvern, Wayne, West Chester and surrounding towns. Telephone officials feel that Ardmore should have such a headquarters, both because of the large number of accounts in the Main Line District and also because of the added convenience to telephone subscribers living in the section.

George K. Erb, recently returned from the American Legion Convention in Paris, is the District Manager. His force will handle the signing of contracts for new service and equipment, questions in regard to accounts, directory listings and all matters of a business nature between the Telephone Company and telephone subscribers. S. C. Price and J. C. Longstreth are the heads respectively of the Plant and Traffic Departments. They occupy offices on the second floor of the new building.

The telephone business office on the first floor is both efficient in arrangement and attractive in appearance. The architecture of the interior is colonial in character. While comparatively simple in design, an effort was made to establish an office here that would be a pleasing addition to the progressive community and one that would be adequate to take care of the growing demands of the future.

The office is finished in gray green panels with mahogany trim, and the desks and other office equipment are of mahogany. Throughout it is well lighted and well ventilated. The floor is covered with large block rubber tiles and the bank of telephone booths, conveniently located near the entrance, are floored with the same material. The District Manager's office, in the rear, has been built and decorated to conform with the rest of the surroundings.

Main Line subscribers will find many innovations in the conduct of the office. Instead of the formidable counter that stretches like a barrier across the front of most offices, the visitor will observe that the new office takes on more the appearance of a dignified reception room. Members of the public entering the office are greeted by a young woman and escorted to the desk of the person who handles the particular phase of telephone business in which they are interested. Here in their conversations across the desks, they can transact their business with all the comfort and privacy of a private office. For the convenience of those who come to the office only to pay bills, the cashiers are located behind a small counter adjacent to the door, in order to render prompt and efficient service.

An interesting and helpful innovation in the office is an alcove in one corner for telephone directories. Here are filed directories issued in all parts of the country for the convenience of telephone users making long distance calls.

THE NEW ERA IN TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION

THEY STUDY THE HUMAN VOICE

TWO thousand people—scientists, mathematicians, technicians and their assistants—in the Bell Telephone Laboratories are constantly studying the human voice.

They study methods and materials for projecting it over a wire or through the air.

They study your telephone service—and how to make it better.

Your present-day service has been developed in this greatest industrial laboratory in the world. Thousands of other experts are constantly studying improvements in operating methods and practices.

Years of ceaseless effort have brought the whole range of your telephone service to its present high standard.

The developments in out-of-town service to nearby points, and the high speed service on calls to more distant points—

These are evidences of the new era which constant research and study have brought to telephone communication.

NO DEFICIT

Baseball Club Winds Up Year in Good Shape.

A meeting of the officers of the Narberth Baseball Club took place last Wednesday evening for the purpose of winding up club affairs for the season.

Since frequently in the past it has happened that the season has ended with a deficit in the treasury, it was particularly gratifying to learn that this year there is a small balance to the good. The statement is as follows:

Donations $604.00

Collections 1137.30

Net Receipts $1141.30

Disbursements 1723.55

Net Balance $177.75

It is inspiring to know that the disbursements included payment of last year's deficit of $194.50 as well as payment of a bill of $144.28 for improvement of the grounds, which will make it possible to start out next year without debts and with a good field.

The officers wish to take this opportunity of thanking each player for his earnest and enthusiastic support of the team, and to assure the public that their cheers and financial abettment alike were greatly appreciated by all the members and officers of the club. Carry on next year!

EDUCATION WEEK

he said, parents and teachers, in every act and word in the presence of their children, are training them religiously and spiritually. Mr. Keighton illustrated his remarks with interesting stories of children he had known, whose religious training had been both good and bad.

W. Russell Green, Esq., representing the American Legion, spoke on "Civic Education," defining education in the same terms as the preceding speaker, as equipment for life, rather than gaining of knowledge. The three goals of civic education, he said, were efficiency, democracy and character. Training for efficiency consists in teaching a child to do a job and do it well. Every individual should feel such pride in his work that he wanted to do it as well as it could be done, thus making himself a truly important part of the world in which he lives. Training for democracy is necessary to destroy intolerance. The best training for democracy would rid us of the distinction between the leisure class who cannot work and the working class who cannot play. We must all learn to work at our play and play at our work. In this connection he praised athletic sports as training camps for democracy.

Above all else, said Mr. Green, civic education should produce character. The world needs men, in both public and private life, whose standard of conduct is above that of insatiable self-interest.

Speaking on behalf of "Community Education," Mrs. C. A. Farmer, president of the Women's Community Club, again stressed the importance of an education that drew out, rather than poured in knowledge. From the standpoint of the community, the school's task is to develop the mind and body of the child, create the spirit of sportsmanship and patriotism, and inculcate respect for religion. The community's task is to co-operate with the schools to these ends. It should create wholesome recreation in the home and outside. Through its town newspaper, its library and its club life, it can also help to cultivate respect for authority, respect for property and a spirit of tolerance.

The last number on the program was the reading by Mrs. H. M. Berry, of Henry Van Dyke's "Tribute to the Unknown Teacher," who carries so heavy a burden, often without receiving proper appreciation for her devoted service.

The meeting opened with the presentation of certificates and prizes to five Narberth school children who completed the requirements of the Vacation Reading Club. Mrs. R. F. Wood, librarian, in making the presentations, commended the interest and perseverance of the children who carried the project to completion. Those who received the certificates and prizes, consisting of fountain pens and pencils, were Jane Smedley, Elliott Morse, Isabel McFarland, Anita McFarland and George McDevitt.

All parents are invited, on Friday evening, November 18, from 7 to 9 o'clock, to attend the evening session of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the Narberth School. They are also invited to attend the regular meeting of the school board in the office of Principal Wilson, at the school, at 8 o'clock on the same evening.

Horn," which is netting the itinerant pots and pans salesman who told it in his own language, over $2000 a week in royalties, and "We," Colonel Lindbergh's book. Reviews were also given of the new novels, short stories and plays. The members voted Mrs. Kelly's talk an education in the harmony of language.

A number of committee reports were received. Mrs. C. H. Shaw read the tentative budget for the year; Mrs. E. C. Town made an appeal to the members to subscribe for the "Messenger." Mrs. Town also reported on the Legislative classes at her home the first Friday of the month.

Mrs. G. N. Gill, chairman of Welfare, asked for used clothing to be sent to Crosnor School, a mountain school attended by boys and girls who depend on this help. She announced that Mrs. W. C. Newman would call for any bundles to be included in the box to be sent before the end of November.

Mrs. Newman reported a good attendance at the literature group meetings. The next subject will be "The Rise of American Civilization." Mrs. Mueller announced that the home economics classes will be held at her home next Tuesday at 2 P. M. Mrs. N. C. Anderson, chairman of publicity, reported on the recent State convention at Pittsburgh, stressing some of the mental and spiritual aids gained by attending these meetings.

During the afternoon two solos were given by Mrs. H. E. Ruch, accompanied by Mrs. Hipwell. Mrs. H. G. Michaelsen was hostess.

Many favorable comments and telegrams were received by the club following their recent program broadcast from station WFI. Mrs. J. T. Barclay sang Schubert's Serenade with a violin obligato and piano accompaniment. Mrs. N. C. Anderson read original poems. Mrs. A. C. Staples sang several numbers and Mrs. W. S. Horner gave several whistling solos.

The president, Mrs. C. Arley Farmer, read a history of the club's accomplishments prepared by Mrs. Ross. The accompanists and piano soloists were Mrs. Agnes Trotter, Mrs. W. C. Newman and Miss Marie Miesen. Mrs. Lewis Easby gave the violin obligato.

big crowd. Despite this there will be hundreds standing for the word has gone forth that this will be one of the old-time Lower Merion battles, contested every minute of the way and with one long run, one short pass, or just any one of a half a dozen breaks meaning the difference between victory and defeat.

This year the two elevens are more evenly matched than they have been for several years. Last year Coach Jules Prevost's big Red team had things much its own way. With its line composed of veterans, with those two flashes, Seth Brown and Lamley, at ends, and with a capable backfield Radnor encountered little difficulty when it met Coach Albert Adam's green aggregation.

This year things are somewhat different. Gone are Brown and Lamley, whose brilliant, almost self-conducted excursions against the Maroon and White resulted in four touchdowns and a victory for the Wayne host. Gone also are the veterans who helped to make the Radnor line of last year an impenetrable stone wall when Lower Merion three times had the ball on enemy's six-yard line. Only Captain George Lentz and Linesmen Curley, Hennessey and Bounds are back to face the Adam eleven this time.

Lower Merion on the other hand has suffered little from graduations. A great majority of its men who took part in the classic of last fall are again back to battle Radnor. Among these are Captain Cook, Scott, Purse, Barclay, Doherty, and that outstanding backfield star, Ossie Smith. Roles in the line have been plugged up until this forward wall is now one of strength and, in addition, Coach Adam has picked up backfield finds in Mearns Kohlas and Parker Lloyd, a really capable fullback, who after being lost to the team due to scholastic difficulties, became eligible last week and is now back in the line ready for the Radnor trap. With this array Lower Merion, if anything, has a slight edge on Radnor, but "edges" mean little when these two old rivals get together. Time after time has each school gone into the fray the under dog and with an indomitable spirit and a "can't-be-licked" light upset the dope.

If season's records meant anything it might be pointed out that Lower Merion trimmed Lansdowne 21-5 while Radnor vanquished this eleven only 18-0. On the other hand, however, Lower Merion beat Cheltenham only 12-0, while Prevost's proteges took them into camp to the tune of 18-6. Upper Darby, which was the only other school played by both teams, lost to Radnor by a 20-0 score; to Lower Merion by a 20-6 tally.

Each team has suffered one defeat this season. Lower Merion got it at the hands of the powerful Abington High machine, while Radnor ate humble pie after meeting the equally if no, more formidable, Overbrook High aggregation.
